VALLEY ATHLETICS HERE AND THERE

Discus-throwers around the conference are waging a merry race for titular honors. Dick Kremer in the Valley meet last year broke the record, hurling the weight some 130 feet. Early this year Allan Lincoln in his first workout of the season threw it 133 feet. In a dual meet with the Southerners Sandefur, the Jayhawk weight man, threw the disk 136 feet. Now Kremer jumps into the lead with a heave of 137 feet in a dual meet at Des Moines last Saturday. Wait until the Valley meet!

Deering of Nebraska is not likely to have much competition in the sprints at the Valley meet at St. Louis. He was able to hold his own with the best the East had to offer at Penn last Saturday and the chances are that he will wrest the honors from all-Valley contenders. The Tigers in recent years have been jealous of other holders of sprint laurels, Simpson, Sylvester, Schulz and all the other dash men who have raced for the Gold and Black usually winning first honors. With Schulz now gone and Massengale disabled for the season, the Tigers will not be as strong in this event as they have been in previous years.

In seventeen annual dual meets, the Tigers have eight times returned winners. Once have they won the Western Conference title, as many as six Missourians have been named as All-American track and field teams in recent years, and last season three Missouri University athletes played on the Olympic team. Only one other university equaled this last record—Leland Stanford of California. In seventeen years Kansas has won one Valley meet.

It is to be hoped that the pentathlon results from the Penn games of last week will close for all time discussion from the University of Kansas to the effect that Everett Bradley is "America's premier athlete." While Legendre is the present title holder, it is interesting to know that Bradley never won the final decision over Hamilton in either the pentathlon, septathlon or decathlon. Once Bradley did win over Hamilton, namely in the Penn games a year ago, but Hamilton defeated him in the Olympic trials. Bradley is a great all-around athlete, but the laurels should be awarded where they belong.

GIVES THE SHOWME A BOOST

M. U. Scrubs Could Beat Harvard at Basketball, Too, Editor Says

That the scrub basketball team of the University of Missouri probably would have swamped the varsity of Harvard this year is the opinion expressed in the leading editorial of the May number of the Collegiate World. The statement is made in connection with a discussion of the value of the Showme to student life.

The editorial in part follows: "Whenever I hear of any new journalistic venture at a college or university, I am interested. In fact I believe I am as much interested as any progressive student is at that school save the ones who have the responsibility of putting out the publication. Any venture of this sort is a marked sign of progress of the institution and should have the hearty support of the student body."

"We are told that the first issue of the Harvard Lampoon was got out with great difficulty. It did not have the sanction of the school authorities. It was simply an effort on the part of several wide awake students to start something. How well they succeeded is known by nearly every college student today. It does not seem to me that the student body of Harvard University is any more capable, in a course of five years, of putting out a better humorous magazine than the students of the University of Missouri, year in and year out, any more than the athletic teams of the University of Missouri could successfully defeat those representing Harvard for a period of five years. Yet any follower of athletics will tell you that the scrub basketball team of Missouri would probably swamp the varsity of Harvard this year. Why? Simply because Harvard is just starting basketball and Missouri is synonymous with championship basketball teams."

"Why," inquires a poster that recently appeared on a bulletin board at the University of Missouri, "is it that the scrub basketball team of Missouri would probably swamp the varsity of Harvard this year? TENNIS IS TABLE TALK NOW

Stephens Girls Practice for Tournament Between Showers.

"Net ball!"

"That's good; you're bringing 'em up. Mary! Soon be getting 'em over the net regularly."

All of which is incidental to the intense preparation Stephens College students make each year to get past the dreaded preliminaries of the annual tennis tournament. Every rainless moment of the day there may be seen ten or twelve girls hitting balls on the inside edge of the back line with experienced dexterity or hunting those sent over the backstops. Dinner talk is predominated by tennis discussions and, if enthusiasm makes for experts, there should be some good matches by the end of this month.
